

In case you didn't get it – Angela Eagle's email of 7th April to all members

From: Angela Eagle

Sent: Thursday, April 07, 2016 5:39 PM

Dear [REDACTED],

When I ask Labour members why they joined the Party, they always tell me it was to help change our country for the better. That's why I want to let you know about an important opportunity to shape Labour policy, as a first step to our 2020 Manifesto.

As the Chair of Labour's National Policy Forum, I want your views on seven key priorities for our Party:

- Building a productive economy
- Affordable housing
- Mental health
- Childcare and early intervention
- The crime and policing challenges of the future
- Local transport
- Britain's security and defence priorities

It's easy to share your ideas. Just go to yourbritain.org.uk, read the short consultation documents, and share your ideas in a submission. Your Representatives on the National Policy Forum will consider all the submissions you make, and can respond directly to your ideas online.

Developing a winning policy platform means reaching out to as many people as possible, with a policy-making process which is open, inclusive and democratic.

So as well as the consultation on key areas of policy, I am also leading an important review of Labour's policy-making process itself - to harness the skills and abilities of our members, and allow everyone to play a full role in deciding the direction we will take together. I would be delighted to hear from you:

NPF and Policy-Making Review: find out more and share your ideas

This is the beginning of a national conversation about the direction of our party and our country - I hope you'll be a part of it.

With kind regards,

Angela Eagle
Chair of the National Policy Forum

To manage your email preferences or unsubscribe from Labour party emails please click here. We won't pass on your email address to anyone else: see our privacy policy. Reproduced from an email sent by the Labour Party, promoted by Iain McNicol on behalf of the Labour Party both at Southside, 105 Victoria Street, London SW1E 6QT